THIS SUMMER, YOU COULD:

1. Surround yourself with students and faculty that share your passions and goals.

2. Experience college-life at Northwestern University's beautiful lakeside campus.

3. Receive focused and constant feedback from experienced faculty and theatre professionals in a constructive environment.

4. Perform final productions at the Louis Theater at Northwestern University.

5. Enjoy access to Northwestern’s theatre facilities.

6. Attend guest lectures and discussions with industry professionals. Past speakers include lyricist Sheldon Harnick (Fiddler on the Roof), actor Rondi Reed (Tony winner for August: Osage County) and actress Hollis Resnick (Sister Act).

7. Take fieldtrips into Chicago to experience the city’s best theatre.

8. Invite friends and family to see your work at the final productions.

9. Bolster your academic resume and profile for college applications.

10. Make friends that will help you with creative endeavors years after NHSI.

EVERYONE BEGINS SOMEWHERE. SOMETIMES THE HARDEST PART IS FINDING THE STARTING POINT.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY
The Theatre Arts Division at the NHSI (The Cherubs) has been designed to offer you the same quality and intensity of experience you will encounter at top collegiate theatre programs, including Northwestern’s Theatre Department (2015 top ten drama school).

Now in its 86th year, the NHSI’s Theatre Arts division is a powerful exploration into stage performance and design. A rigorous combination of classes and rehearsals challenge students every day for five weeks.

We provide participants opportunities to work with some of the country’s best professional theatre artists/educators in a unique hands-on, collaborative environment. The Institute takes place on Northwestern’s beautiful campus, in close proximity to Chicago, where students will take field trips to see plays and musicals throughout the summer.

Students will receive an intensive experience that will prepare them for college and conservatory programs. The program culminates in full productions performed on the stage of Northwestern’s Louis Theatre.

Graduates of the Theatre Arts program include: David Schwimmer (Emmy award-winning actor), Kate Mulgrew (Emmy award-winning actor), Tony Kushner (Pulitzer-prize winning playwright), Barbara Gaines (Artistic Director, Chicago Shakespeare Theatre), Robert Reich (former Secretary of Labor), and America Ferrara (Emmy Award-winning actress).

Tuition for the NHSI Theatre Arts five week program is $5500. Tuition for the 7 week program is $7600. Financial aid is available. Please visit www.nhsi.northwestern.edu or call 847-491-3026 for more information.
